Dear Mr. Mata,

The Dallas Builders Association appreciates the role building codes play in maintaining the integrity of home construction in our area. As such, the Association conducts a detailed review of each International Code Council (ICC) code that pertains to the residential construction industry. This review emphasizes health and safety as well as housing affordability concerns.

As it has been for many years, the Association was an active participant in reviewing the 2021 ICC codes, serving on the North Central Texas Council of Governments Regional Codes Coordinating Committee (RCCC). Our members and staff were provided an opportunity during that process to convey the industry's concerns, and many of those concerns were incorporated into the amendments that are now being considered for adoption by the City of Plano.

Thanks to the RCCC process and the advanced notice that you have provided the Association to review Plano's local amendments, the Dallas Builders Association is comfortable with the residential provisions of Plano's 2021 code amendments package as presented.

We appreciate your proactive efforts to seek our input and we look forward to being a continued resource for housing in the City of Plano and throughout the Dallas area.

Sincerely,
